Single Agency To Control Lake Area Being Considered

The Nevada State Legislature may institute a plan to place the entire Lake Tahoe Basin under a single governing authority during 1965. The plan would involve a compact between California and Nevada, with the federal government participating as a partner.

Richard Ham, executive administrator to Governor Grant Sawyer, said there had been "some thinking going on concerning a bi-state compact agreement," but that the governor's office has not yet taken a stand on the idea.

Ham indicated the discussions relative to the proposal had touched on the Delaware River Authority in which four states and the federal government are partners in a compact. The agency has broad powers over the Delaware river, bay and estuaries.

Assemblyman Ray Knisley of Pershing County, a member of the Lake Tahoe Area Council, said that eventually the basin would come to some such an agreement. He added that he would hesitate to be the aggressor in the plan but would probably aid if the governor so requests.

The authority, if developed, would have unlimited authority over the basin, but he felt there would be no need to usurp all the civil functions of the various agencies now in control.

He said the authority should be concerned with land usage, water purity standards, sewage disposal, road and zoning and later to add fire protection, policing and other agencies.

Other spokesmen said they recognized the need for such a plan but feared possible loss of sovergnity under a compact. Gambling would be excluded if such a plan is promoted.

The accident occurred as Souza attempted to put chains on a car which had shortly before been involved in a two-car collision. The patrolman reported that Becknel was apparently confused by the flashing light of the patrol car and in applying his brakes skidded into Souza.

The buffet will start at 8 p. m. with dancing to the music of Frank Austin's combo.

Rifle Range Plans Will Be Discussed

Members of the Truckee Outdoor Sportsmen and others interested in the building of a shooting range in the area will meet Friday at 8 p. m. in the County Government Building to hear a report by the committee in charge of planning and further discuss the project.

Bill Davis, president of the club, said a number of organizations, including the Tahoe City Pistol and Rifle Club, are interested in the project and have offered to assist in the development.

At the last meeting of the Sportsmen, M. C. King, Jake Lusky and Bob Decker were named on a committee to secure plans for the range and determine other factors.

George Steed, district forest ranger, said his agency would be pleased to work with the group in organizing an adequate range, but that assurance must be given that some responsible political entity would be permanently in charge before the forest service could enter the picture.

Tentative plans call for a range patterned by the National Rifle Association, with adequate space for rifle, skeet and other fire arms contests, together with other necessary facilities.

Hospital Ordered To Admit Doctor To Active Status

Judge Vernon Stoll yesterday issued a court order directing the board of directors of the Tahoe Forest Hospital to grant Dr. Edwin O. Hendrickson full active medical staff privileges at the hosiptal pending another hearing set for December 15 and 16 in the Nevada County Superior Court.

At that time the court will rule whether or not the order shall be permanent, the hospital board being required to show cause why it should not be at that time.

Dr. Hendrickson said after the hearing yesterday that he had instructed his attorney, Ronald F. Sypnicki, to drop the $50,000 damage action he had filed against the hospital board and officers.

Dr. Hendrickson had made a number of applications over the past three years to be admitted to the staff at the hospital but each time they were rejected by the board upon recommendation of the medical staff, Dr. Hendrickson said.

Sanitary Board To Study Donner Plan

Directors of the Truckee Sanitary District meeting Tuesday night decided to delay any official action on a proposed new sewer system at Donner Lake pending further study of a plan offered by Engineering Science of Southern California, representatives of which recently made a survey of the Lake Tahoe-Truckee river basin.

The survey showed one alternate system for North Tahoe would be a continuing sewer line from Incline Village to just below Truckee where a major disposal plant could be located to handle the various systems along North Tahoe and down the Truckee river, including Donner Lake.

The local board wishes to compare costs and services.

The original plan presented the board by Gillett and Harris is revealed on a detailed map now on display in the County Government Building. This system, confined to the Donner area would provide a line completely around the lake with an entirely new disposal plant. The cost of such a project was estimated by the engineers at $3.5 million.

A study of this proposal, com-

District Directors Authorize Steps To Reduce Costs

The directors of the Truckee Public Utility District are determined to seek lower cost power for local distribution.

This was evidenced last week when they passed a resolution authorizing Martin McDonough, attorney for the district, to "commence and prosecute such proceedings as he may deem advisable and necessary for delivery of Central Valley Project power to this district from the electric system of Pacific Gas and Electric Company."

It was further resolved that, "subject to the approval of this board the attorney and manager shall employ such consultants as may be required, in their opinion, to present the district's case clearly and completely" and that the manager "seek and obtain such technical and other assistance as may be available from other public agencies and organizations interested in the widespread distribution of the benefits of low cost power through preference agencies."

The resolution calls attention to the fact that the Central Valley Project was proposed by the State of California and constructed by the Bureau of Reclamation for the benefit of users of water and electricity in northern and central California, and "this district is the only

Grand Jury Probes Death Of Aged Man

The Nevada County Grand Jury tomorrow will probe the circumstances leading up to the death of Charles Epperson, 72, who died two weeks ago in the Nevada County Hospital as the result of a fractured skull.

In the meantime, the victim's son, Olen, 47, is being detained in jail on charges of violating the motor vehicle code, pending the outcome of the grand jury action.

The son and his father were found in a stalled car on Donner Summit November 17. Officers said it appeared there had been a fight and the elder Epperson had apparently been struck over the head with a wine bottle. He died a short time later.

Olen Epperson was charged with being drunk and sentenced to 15 days in jail. This time expired and Tuesday he was returned to Truckee Judicial District Court where Judge F. W. Wilson sentenced him to an additional 38-day term for not having chains in a chain control area and for not having a valid California license.

District Attorney Harold Berliner will present facts to the grand jury and requests an indictment against the son.

Increase Granted In Disability Payment

Californians who cannot work because of sickness or injury not caused by their jobs will receive a maximum of $80 a week in disability insurance benefits during 1965, Albert B. Tieburg, director of employment, announced.

The 1965 increase over the present $77 a week maximum is a result of an increase in average weekly wages in employment covered by the California Unemployment Insurance Code. The code contains an escalator clause which provides for adding one-dollar steps to the disability insurance benefit amount table for each dollar by which two-thirds of the average weekly wage exceeds $70. Under this formula, steps of $78, $79 and $80 will be added to the disability benefit amount table for 1965. This will mean disability benefits next year will range from $25 to $80 a week (compared with the present range of from $25 to $77 a week). Persons who earn from $75 to $524.99 in the highest earnings quarter of their base periods will receive $25 a week; those who earn $1,875 and more in the highest quarter will receive the $80 a week maximum.

Mickey Turner and Margo Coming To Topaz Room Tues

CRYSTAL BAY — Opening on Tuesday night in the Topaz Room of North Lake Tahoe's Nevada Lodge are a pair of bright young talents, Mickey Turner and Margo, who are fast becoming the hit of Reno-Tahoe-Vegas show circuit.

Highly successful as solo performers, the two have joined forces to produce a lounge act that has been hailed as one of the best in the business, Mickey, a handsome, talented young man, and Margo, a beautiful, equally talented songstress, have been rapidly building a following throughout the area.

Mickey Turner . . . arranger, instrumentalist and vocalist . . . for several years led his own combo in some of the better night spots across the nation.

At the same time, Margo was a rising young rock and roll singer and songwriter. She has written and recorded a number of her own songs, many of them of the rock and roll variety.

But when the pair joined forces, the style of each changed considerably. The act features a variety of long-time favorites, many of them made during the 1930's.

The latest recording pressed by Mickey and Margo features Margo's vocal styling of the oldie "Ma, He's Making Eyes At Me", with Margo's own composition, "Test of Love", on the flip side.

The pair terms the act "intimate" with the accent on careful musical artistry and light comedy.

New Traffic Signs Slated For Ramps

SACRAMENTO — State-wide installation of two new signs will take place during the next few months as another step in the continuing program of the California Division of Highways to discourage drivers from entering freeways in the wrong direction.

Red-background signs bearing the message WRONG WAY will be placed on each side of all off-ramps, near the exit points. The letters will be white on the red background and both colors will be highly reflective. The signs will not be visible to drivers proceeding in the proper direction.

On-ramps will be identified by signs that read FREEWAY ENTRANCE. This reassuring message will also be in white letters, but on the standard green background which motorists associate with normal state highway directional signs.

The red and green backgrounds were purposely selected because of the respective "Stop" and "Go" situations most people identify with them.

Although the new signs have been officially approved for installation, it will take several months before the signs can be procured and installed at all the approximate 5,000 ramps included in the freeway system, according to State Highway Engineer J. C. Womack.

In some off-ramp locations, two experimental devices will be tested in conjunction with the new signs.

The first is a reflective pavement arrow visible only at night. It consists of a series of inconspicuous plastic wedges that pick up the beams of automobile headlights aimed in the wrong direction and transforms them into a red arrow pointed at the oncoming vehicle.

The second is an auxiliary white and red sign that reads GO BACK —YOU ARE GOING WRONG WAY. Single installations will be made on the right side at the approximate midway point of all off-ramps in the San Francisco Bay area. They will be visible only to wrong-way traffic.

Womack expressed the hope that the new devices will prove effective in curbing at least some of the eight percent of freeway fatal accidents now caused by wrong-way movements. These accidents result in 30 to 35 deaths each year. He pointed out that the fatalities include not only offenders but many innocent persons who were proceeding in the right direction.

Womack hopes the signs will have a positive effect on even drinking drivers, but observed that they are "an extremely difficult group to reach with a safety message."

All the devices have enjoyed a high degree of success at an Interstate 80 on-and-off ramp northeast of Sacramento.

Unincorporated Area Gets Liqour Funds

The unincorporated area of Nevada County has received $6,718 as its six-month share of the special fees paid by holders of alcoholic beverage licenses.

The payment was made by the state's department of alcoholic beverage control which allocates 90% of all license fee money back to individual cities and counties where it is used to offset the costs of police and fire protection, schools, highways, hospitals and other government services. The remaining 10% goes into the state's general fund where it is used for similar purposes.

The most recent payment was for the six-month period ending August 31, 1964. Nevada County as a whole, including the unincorporated area, received $11,666 for the period.

A package store beer and wine license cost the owner $37, with a yearly renewal fee of $12. A general on-sale tavern license costs $6,580 originally, with an annual renewal fee of $580, while a beer and wine only tavern license costs $234, renewable yearly for $84.

According to Geo. W. Ososke, executive secretary of the California Brewers Association, local governments throughout the state as a whole received $4,248,358 for the latest period which, coupled with the $6,668,186 received for the period ending February 29, 1964, makes an annual total of $10,916,544.

The world's first public agricultural experiment station was inaugurated by the Agricultural Society of Leipzig, Germany, in 1851.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

by Henry C. MacArthur

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — The resignation of Alfred Heller, publisher of the Nevada County Nugget, from the California highway commission, marks the end of a philosophy which in the short six months he served, never really had a beginning.

Heller, promoter of an organization called "California Tomorrow", espoused the cause of what might be termed impracticality in the location of freeways. He was dedicated to the theory that scenic beauty is more important in the freeway system than usage by the motorists of the state.

The publisher was wholly sincere in his attitude toward freeway locations. He had a great concern for the future of California. But his attitude received little, if any support from the rest of the members of the highway commission, who are concerned with building highways for people to use, rather than to enjoy from a scenic standpoint.

The commission consistently has voted down the suggestions and ideas proposed and espoused by Heller, despite the fact that the members are probably as interested as Heller was in maintaining as much scenic beauty in California as might be possible in line with usage and cost.

Hence, the suspicion is that Heller, far from quitting the commission because of other work he had to do, resigned because he wasn't getting across to the other members of the commission.

All of which once again brings up some questions that have beeen discussed for many years, along with the increases in population, automobiles and freeways.

Many people who are native to California would like to keep the state in the same condition it was 50 years ago, as far as scenic beauty is concerned.

But most of them realize this is not possible. Instead of getting better, the situation gets worse, and will continue so. Those who wish to eliminate convenience on behalf of scenic splendor are doomed to disappointment, no matter how sincere they are in attempting to enlist the services of government in carrying out their ambitions.

A classic example, which is not yet settled, is the losing battle of the scenic sponsors to penalize the people in the Lake Tahoe area by fighting a bridge across Emerald Bay, as well as cost the taxpayers several million additional dollars to build a high-level, dangerous highway.

Here convenience and ease of transportation would be sacrificed for scenic considerations, which is of questionable value, and in ten or twenty years never would be noticed.

It is reasonably easy to say this area or that area must not be touched nor desecrated with modern conveniences, as the state division of beaches and parks attempts to do in permitting only limited usage of the areas under its command.

But it is not so easy to tell a growing population that it cannot enjoy facilities made possible by modern engineering, especially when the growing population is picking up the tab and demanding modern improvements. Hell discovered this fact.

Alfred Heller Quits Post on Commission

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — Alfred E. Heller, Nevada City publisher, has quit his post on the California Highway Commission after a five-month term of service.

Heller, one of the leaders of "California Tomorrow", an organization dedicated to preserving beauty in the growth of the state, said long-standing and prior commitments caused his resignation. Because of these, Heller said in his letter of resignation, "I find I cannot do the kind of conscientious and effective job I would like to do."

Governor Edmund G. Brown said he accepted the resignation with the deepest regret.

California's winter starling population is estimated at 24 million birds.

Suspend License

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — The state department of alcoholic beverage control has ordered a 45-day suspension of the on-sale and off-sale general liquor licenses of A. L. and Margaret R. Brodie, Pastime Club and Cafe, Main Street, Truckee.

Fifteen days of the suspension were ordered on charges of sales to minors and permitting minors to remain on public premises and consume. The other 30 days had been ordered on charges from October of 1963 that the licensees permitted gambling on the premises. That penalty had been stayed but was reimposed along with the current 15-day suspension.

PLACER WINS HONOR IN SAFETY CONTEST

Six California counties were named top winners today in the California County Employee Safety Contest, co-sponsored by the California County Supervisors Association and the State Compensation Insurance Fund.

Representatives of the winning counties — Alpine, Lassen, Placer, Marin, Sonoma and Orange—were presented framed awards by R. A. Young, general manager of the state fund, for having the lowest number of disabling injuries per million man-hours worked during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1964.

The presentations were made at the fifty-fourth annual meeting of the California County Supervisors Association in Palm Springs.

Association Asks State Pay Increases

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — The California state employes' association was scheduled to recommend pay increases for state employes Thursday, ranging from 5 percent for stenographic and clerical classes to as high as 30 percent for a few workers in unusual occupations.

William Morse, CSEA attorney, said the requests for salary increases are based on prevailing rate salary data for comparable jobs in private employment and other governmental jurisdictions. The board carried out its surveys last month.

The personnel board holds its annual salary hearing in November and makes its recommendations to the governor in December for possible inclusion in the next budget.

The 5 percent pay increase was recommended for stenographers, other clerical classes, engineers, accountants, auditors and related classifications. A 10 percent increase was recommended for correctional officers and psychiatric technicians.

A 15 percent pay raise was urged for many conservation classses employed by the division of forestry, department of fish and game and the department of parks and recreation. In a few classifications, such as fisheries biologists, the 30 percent increase was recommended.

Morse said the California highway patrol should have an increase of at least 5 percent, while fish and game wardens and state police deserve a 15 percent increase.

Morse said he would ask a 10 percent increase for the state's craft employes and said consideration should be given to construction industry pay rates.

The CSEA also recommended time and a half for overtime, full state payment for health insurance, with the employe to pay for his dependents.

Salt Substitute Used To Keep Deer Off Highways, Roads

SACRAMENTO — Deer who intend to spend the winter "freeloading" on salt contained in the chemicals used to melt snow from rural highways are in for an unpleasant surprise if a current experiment of the California Division of Highways proves successful.

It is for the deer's own welfare —and not because they begrudge the animals an extra ration of salt —that highways maintenance crews are substituting calcium chloride for the salt used in the past, at least in one section of the deer country.

The need to do something in proved by the fact that in recent 10-month period, 253 deer carcasses were removed from a 37-mile stretch of Intersate 5 (US 99) where iit passes through the Sacramento River canyon in Shasta County The assumption, says District Engineer H. S. Miles of Redding, is that all were killed in traffic accidents. Miles also points out that there is no way of telling how many others were injured but were able to get back into the woods before dying.

Apparently either very few vehicles suffered major damage or drivers were reluctant to report such accidents. On Route 89 near McCloud in Siskiyou county, 45 dead deer were found in 90 days but only four drivers reported being involved in the mishaps.

Miles acknowledges that no one knows whether the animals will spurn the calcium chloride or perhaps even prefer it to salt, but naturalists have assured him it won't harm the deer. He also has been informed that the deer do not require the salt they obtain along the highways because there is a sufficient supply available to them in their natural habitat.

U.S. Infant Death Rate Too High, March of Dimes Physician Says

By VIRGINIA APGAR, M.D.

Director, Division of Congenital Malformations, The National Foundation-March of Dimes

Did you know that 10 nations have a lower infant mortality rate than the United States? That every year we lose about 105,000 babies aged one year or less?

That this tragic and discreditable situation exists despite the fact we have the best trained physicians, the most medical schools, more hospital beds than any other nation, and probably more prenatal clinics than any other country?

How, if at all, can our infant mortality rate be lowered?

In the course of my work with the program of The National Foundation - March of Dimes to eliminate birth defects as a leading cause of infant mortality and disability, I have talked to scores of obstetricians and pediatricians, leaders in public health and other experts to seek answers to the problem of the infant mortality rate in our country. All feel that better prenatal care would help.

Everyone agreed that probably the most blameworthy culprit is a young woman we might call Sally B. She is 20, reasonably pretty, a high school dropout after a year, and she is married to a laborer whose education ceased at age 12. She has had one baby stillborn and two miscarriages, and more such shattering experiences are probably in store for her.

Intimately acquainted with this prototype is Vera R. Keane, now research director at Yale University School of Nursing, New Haven, Conn., and formerly director of parent education, New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center. She has had long experience as a public health nurse, and to me she describes the group to which Sally B. belongs in these terms:

"At any given time in the United States, we estimate that there are some two million women pregnant. Of these, about 500,000 belong to that hardcore, lower socio-economic group who turn a deaf ear to prenatal advice and refuse to attend prenatal clinics because, they say, they don't consider pregnancy as being 'sick.'

"When you ask these women and girls why they won't go to prenatal clinics in communities where these facilities exist, they say they don't need any advice or, if they do, they can get it from a girl friend or neighbor; or they don't have the time; or they don't have the money for transportation to the clinic and for a baby-sitter while they're away from home; or even if they are pregnant they're much more concerned about their husband being out of work, or worried about where they are going to get next month's rent or the money for this week's food. They just poohpooh the whole idea of the protective and preventive health service. That's your typical Sally B."

But let me say to women in early pregnancy that even if they do feel some reluctance about making their first visit to a prenatal clinic we usually find that only about one in five will need to return frequently. Those who are requested to return at close intervals are the high-risk cases where we find such disorders as diabetes, high blood pressure, anemia and obesity. I hasten to add that in these cases there are remedial measures that can be taken.

If our infant mortality rate remains shocking and frightening, that tragedy is no justification for doing nothing to improve it. The time is long overdue for us to roll up our sleeves and get to work. We most certainly can make our prenatal clinics more inviting and less wearing on those expectant mothers who should use them.

The first races of the season were held last weekend. Saturday at Heavenly Valley the annual Pheasant Slalom was held on Ruthies Run at No. 3 lift. Trees were heavy with frost from the cold and the course had to be bootpacked for safety.

Winners of the one run slalom of 37 gates received live pheasants that were presented by radio and TV star Phil Harris.

The three birds the Poulsen's won are still flying around in their attic at Squaw Valley.

Sunday the sun shone brightly all day at Squaw Valley but the slopes stayed icy most of the day.

Sharp edges were needed to negotiate the giant slalom course set on Red Dog for their annual Turkey Race.

First place winners for that race received frozen turkeys; 2nd place racers received chickens and those coming in 3rd received ducks.

Thousands of people enjoyed snow sports during the Thanksgiving 4-day holiday. All the ski resorts in the area were operating with plenty of snow. Hundreds of college and high school students were on the slopes.

Motels flashed "no vacancy" signs all along the route.

Saturday nights teenager dance at the Olympic Village in Squaw Valley was packed and will become a regular event according to security officer Jack Marquette.

Northern California Could Split Off To Form State

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — Northern California could split off and form a new state providing (1) the legislature approved of the action; (2) the congress approved it; and (3) possibly, a requirement that the people voted for the procedure.

This is the gist of two opinions received by Senator Paul J. Lunardi, D-Roseville.

Because of the concern over the U. S. supreme court decision of last June 15, requiring both houses of the legislature of each state to be apportioned solely on the basis of population, some interests have advocated splitting California into two states.

Several weeks ago, boards of supervisors of the nine northern counties met in Redding and considered possible formation of a new state. However, at the time, there were divided legal opinions as to whether this was possible.

Lunardi asked for opinions from both the legislative counsel and Attorney General Thomas C. Lynch. He recently received these opinions.

The attorney general's opinion, written by E. G. Benard, assistant attorney general in the Sacramento office, put it this way:

"The legislature of the state of California would first have to agree to cession of that part of the state that wishes to form the new state. Representatives of the area comprising the new state must petition congress for admission, thereby following the constitutional mandate of consenting to the creation of a new state.

"Congress would then have to pass the act admitting the new state into the union by a majority vote."

The legislative counsel's opinion, written for Chief Deputy George H. Murphy by Edward K. Purcell, a deputy, varied slightly from the AG version. It outlined three required steps:

1. Submission to the people of an amendment to the California constitution authorizing the legislature to consent to a division of the state;

2. Passage of a bill by the legislature consenting to the division and adoption by the legislature of a resolution requesting consent of congress to the division;

3. Passage of legislation by congress consenting to the division.

The opinion noted that, though the U. S. constitution does not require it, congress might condition its consent on an expression of consent separately from the people of the territory that would constitute either or both of the new states.

Unemployment Pay OK'd for Housewife

SACRAMENTO—In a precedent setting decision, the California Unemployment Insurance Appeals Board has awarded unemployment benefits to a married claimant who quit a good job, "because I wanted to stay home and be a housewife."

J. Richard Glade, executive vice president of the Unemployment Insurance Association, a group of California commercial, industrial employers, said the appeals board had to reverse a prior decision in order to pay unemployment benefits to the housewife.

The ULA, which was formed to discourage abuses in unemployment "handouts," claims the decision illustrates that the California UI program is being liberalized to the point where it is simply a "dole" or "handout", available to anyone who has some work experience.

Glade said, "This case demonstrates how a housewife can collect UI benefits of $55 a week for probably 39 weeks before going back to work and then repeating the same process all over again."

PLAN TO ISSUE LICENSE

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — The contractors' state license board announced it plans to issue a license for sewer, sewage disposal, drain and cement pipe laying work to Larry R. Bullock, Bullock Construction Co., Box 16, Rubicon Peak Road, Incline Village, if no protests are received by December 9.

Pears were introduced to North America about 1625.

Cigarette Tax Hike Recommended by Governor's Board

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — The governor's advisory committee on cigarette smoking and health has recommended an increase in the cigarette tax, with some of the proceeds to be used in educating people not to smoke.

The final report of the committee, substantially the same as had been considered by the group several months ago—also calls for increased school recreational programs as a means to deter young people from smoking.

The report called for a coordinated research program into tobacco and health and establishment of state-supported cigarette withdrawal clinics. It said present sections of the low prohibiting sale of cigarettes to minors should be strictly enforced and extended to prohibit sales by vending machines.

On April 2, 1792, Congress authorized the establishment of the first United States mint in Philadelphia, then the national capitol.

"Everybody should be a newspaper boy," says Yogi Berra

"I was. And I believe it develops traits that will be important whether you're going to be a ball player or a corporation president.

"It teaches dependability, for one thing. I know it isn't easy to get those papers around when the weather's mean, but those kids do it.

"(Trying to hit 30 or 40 front porches every day with folded papers never hurt any kid's pitching arm, either.)

"Being a newspaper boy teaches you to be a good businessman too. You learn how to handle money and to save some—as so many of these boys do by buying U. S. Savings Bonds regularly.

"The dollars they save in Bonds might help put them through college someday. Right now, they help Uncle Sam keep our country strong.

"I'm proud to have been a newspaper boy. It's a big job."

preference customer in that area to whom power and energy from the project is not now available."

The document adds that large quantities of power and energy are delivered by the Central Valley Project to the electric transmission system of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, which system extends to within one mile of the boundaries of this district, at which point it could be taken by the facilities constructed by this district.

Manager Francis Longo said the resolution paves the way for him and the attorney, McDonough, to take their application before the California Public Utilities Commission for a decision by that agency, or even to higher authority if necessary.

"This action by the directors is one of vital importance to the district," Longo commented, "It opens the door for negotiations which, in my opinion, will eventually result in the district obtaining low-cost power for the customers in the Truckee-Donner Lake community, thus encouraging additional industry to locate here."
